

The Restraint Reduction Network Training Standards Campaign: Suggested Tweets

RRN Twitter handle: @theRRNetwork

Hashtag: #knowthestandards.

Launch day tweets

We will be kicking off the campaign together at 10am on Monday 1 April 2019. Join us on Twitter by posting as many of the suggested tweets below or your own Tweets as you like, using the hashtag #knowthestandards We're putting a stop to unnecessary restrictive interventions. Will you join us?

#knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

We support the call to reduce restrictive interventions in health, social care and education settings. Do you? #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

We've pledged our support to the Restraint Reduction Network and are calling for all services across health, social care and education to implement the new Training Standards #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

I want to see an end to unnecessary restrictive practices across health, social care and education. Do you? #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

Today the new Restraint Reduction Network Training Standards are being published. Certification against these will become mandatory for all NHS commissioned services from 2020. Get to #knowthestandards now <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

"...We feel our son may not have died in vain. If we can make sure this never happens to anyone else, that would be an amazing legacy for Seni." The Training Standards were produced to put an end to harmful & deadly restraints
#knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

We welcome the publication of cross sector standards (recognised and endorsed by government departments, charities, and professional bodies) for training that includes restrictive practices #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

We welcome the development of certification of training services complying with the Standards, accredited by UKAS (the government appointed accreditation body for the UK to ensure competence, impartiality and integrity) #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

Certification of training as complying with the standards will greatly help service providers commissioning good quality training #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

The standards ensure training focuses on human rights and prevention not just technical skills #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

We're going through the process of becoming a certificated training provider, because we uphold human rights and want to support people to thrive
#knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2TzuXLp>

Ongoing tweets:

How do you know that you're providing the best care for your service users? Positive and proactive strategies have been shown to have the most benefit for service users #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Taking the Restraint Reduction Network Pledge shows your commitment to increasing quality of life for your service users and staff, upholding human rights and proactively reducing restraint #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Find out how your service can reduce the number of occasions restraint is required & make occasions where restraint is unavoidable safer and more dignified #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

How do you know that you're providing the best care for your service users? Positive and proactive strategies have been shown to have the most benefit for service users #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Certification against the Restraint Reduction Network Training Standards will be mandatory for all training with a restrictive intervention component delivered to NHS commissioned services from April 2020. Be prepared #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Your experience of care should be the least restrictive possible. Restraint should only be used as a last resort. Find out what to look for in good and bad care #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

There is now a national & international benchmark for training in supporting people who are distressed in education, health and social care settings. Care about human rights? #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Intervention training should only be delivered by competent & experienced training professionals who can evidence skills that go far beyond the application of physical restraint #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Protect people's fundamental human rights. Promote person centered, best interest & therapeutic approaches. Support people in distress #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

Prevention before restriction. Increase your understanding of the root causes of behaviour #knowthestandards <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>

#knowthestandards. Set your Standard. Take a Stand. Take the Restraint Reduction Network pledge to show your commitment to reducing restrictive practices <http://bit.ly/2Ub4g3J>